F.A.Q

Q) Is my car suitable for the trip?

A) It's a good question, because all 4wds are not made equal! Often it's the driver and his/her driving style, not the car which dictates how suitable it is. However we do not recommend AWD cars for dune bashing, and you will have a better drive and the ability to drive out of more "stuck" situations if your car has a 4LOW option on the gearbox. Have a look at our gallery photos and you will see the types of cars our members drive in the desert. If in doubt, send me a private message or call me, or contact one of the other marshals.

Q) How much does it cost?

A) UAEoffroaders is a totally FREE club. All it will cost you is the price of your petrol and the food you bring along.

Q) I have an appointment at 3pm, can I leave the trip early?

A) Sorry no, for safety reasons we go in to the desert together and we leave it together.

Q) I have young children aged 2 and 3, is the trip suitable for them?

A) Our club has many members with young children, the main thing is for them to be strapped into a suitable child carseat, and for them to wear trainers or similar, as the sand is very hot. That being said, if your kids suffer from motion sickness, this is possibly not the best activity for them.

Q) Why don't you post the meeting points of your trips on the forum?

A) The trip is tailored to a certain number of cars, dependent on type of car, experience of driver, and numbers of Marshals/Experts signed up. If the meeting point is known, then extra cars may turn up which means the Marshal is "put on the spot" - it's hard to say no.

Q) Can I take passengers?

A) Yes, you are welcome to take passengers, but be aware, that a car filled with 4-6 adults will be a lot closer to the ground (and thus more likely to get stuck or sustain minor bumper and underside damage) than if it has only 2 adults and a couple of kids.

We wish you all the best and always drive safe on and offroad,
